The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Claims 14-22, 33, and 34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Japanese Publication No. 11-179061, hereinafter JP '061.

JP '601 discloses a method of producing multiple expressions in a toy (see attached sheet) comprising moving a first facial element (see attached sheet) and moving a second facial element substantially simultaneously with the moving said first facial element (see attached sheet) as recited in claim 14; moving the first facial element to a first position; moving the second facial element to a second position, the first and second facial elements producing a first expression when in said first and second positions, respectively (see attached sheet) as recited in claim 15; moving said first facial element to a third position; and moving said second facial element to a fourth position, said first and second facial elements producing a second expression when in said third and fourth positions, respectively, said second expression being different from said first expression (see attached sheet) as required by claim 16; the first facial element is an eyeball body, said second facial element is an eyebrow body, and said moving a first facial element and said moving a second facial element are coordinated to produce at least two of the expressions of anger and inquisitiveness (see attached sheet) as recited in claim 21; said moving a first facial element includes moving the first facial element in an upward and downward motion; and moving said first facial element in a side to side motion as recited in claim 22; the moving the first facial element in a first direction occurring substantially simultaneously with the moving the first facial element in a second direction as recited in claim 33, and the first facial element and the second facial element are different types of facial elements as recited in claim 34.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 4, 6-13, and 23-32 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims 14-22 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion
